Widespread Trials Set

Officers Executed In Cuba Cleanup

* * *

Recognition Given By Britain, U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Revolutionary authorities announced Wednesday the execution of 15 officers of the armed forces of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The executions signalled the start of widespread trials by revolutionary courts of Cubans accused of crimes against the state.

COLONEL DIES

Authorities said 10 officers, including Col. Arcado Casillas Lumpuy, were executed in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province and home-town of Fidel Castro, leader of the revolution.

Lumpuy was Batista's chief of operations in Oriente, where between 200 and 300 prisoners were reported awaiting trial.

800 IN CUSTODY

Havana police chief Aldo Vera said 800 prisoners are being held in the capital on political charges.

Dispatches from Santiago de Cuba said revolutionary military tribunals opened the trials of 207 army officers and other adherents of the Batista regime. They were charged with brutal beatings and in some instances killings of prisoners.

Britain and the United States announced Wednesday they have officially recognized the Cuban provisional government.

FRANCE, TOO

Informed sources in Paris said Wednesday that France has decided to recognize the Urrutia government also, but no official announcement has been made.

Several other countries have already extended recognition.

Castro's 26th of July movement spurred the hunt for informers and others who lined their pockets under Batista. It announced formation of a "department of purification."

HERO'S JOURNEY

Still enjoying a hero's journey through eastern provinces on his way to the capital, where he is due to arrive today, the 32-year-old Fidel Castro indicated in interviews that he does not favor diplomatic relations with any dictatorship, including Communist ones.

RCMP Find Teen-Age Addicts

TRAFALGAR, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief Fred Oliver said Wednesday teen-agers in this community between Toronto and Hamilton have been using narcotics for more than two months.

He said this was disclosed by intensive undercover investigation by an RCMP narcotics squad and township police.

18,000,000 For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population will probably reach 18,000,000 in 1966, the bureau of statistics reports.

Soviet Purge Near?

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is believed to be setting the stage for a major purge which could lead to a trial and even the execution of ex-premier Georgi Malenkov.

Cuba's fiery new president, Manuel Urrutia, tells cheering students at the University of Havana that Cuban people will be sovereign power. He also pledged an honest regime.—(AP Photofax.)

Trust Us More Mikoyan Urges

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

CLEVELAND (AP) — "You don't trust us enough," Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier, told an audience of business leaders Wednesday in an appeal for trade between Russia and the United States.

(See other stories on Page 12.)

"Trade can strengthen peace; peace can make a proper atmosphere for trade," he said in a half-hour talk to a selected group of 60 men.

"It is a fact that we have something to buy and sell for each other," Mikoyan went on. "We want to trade earnest and trade well—to get as high a price as we can for the goods we sell and pay as low as we can for the goods we buy."

Both Mikoyan and Cyrus Eaton, Canadian-born industrialist who is host to the deputy premier, voiced a hope the U.S. Congress would lift trade barriers.

Quemoy Again Under Fire From Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Chinese Communist guns fired 32,919 rounds yesterday in the biggest bombardment of the offshore Quemoy Islands in two months, the Nationalist defence ministry announces.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

The Chinese firing was a punitive measure against Nationalist garrison rather than a reopening of full-scale hostilities in the Formosa Strait.

Five Cheat Death

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP) — A passing motorist saved four women and a man from the threat of freezing to death after their auto stalled on the lonely Whitehorse-Dawson highway.

One of the women, Nora King of Dawson, is in hospital here with badly frost-bitten feet. The others are in good condition.

The women, all school teachers, were being driven here by bush pilot John Wakefield when the car stalled on a desolate stretch 40 miles from Whitehorse.

The five began hiking through 50-below-zero weather but had to return to the car when two of the women tired.

A passing motorist, William Braga of Whitehorse, brought the marooned party into Dawson Sunday night. He said he almost turned back on his trip from Whitehorse because of the freezing weather.

360 Pupils Flee Fire In Minute

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — More than 360 pupils were evacuated in less than a minute yesterday when fire broke out in the basement of St. Patrick's parochial school here.

Except for the complete absence of injuries, the fire paralleled the Chicago school disaster that claimed 93 lives last month.

Special fire drills were conducted since the Chicago fire, officials said.

Enemy No. 1

Death Driver Branded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday branded the "death driver" as "public enemy No. 1" and called for sterner punishment of traffic law violators.

Obviously disturbed over the high holiday traffic death toll, Hoover said the American public must take "positive action" to avert the "threat of national suicide on the highway."

Writing in the FBI's law enforcement bulletin, Hoover charged that the "automobile assassin is a vicious criminal and must be treated as a major menace to society."

"Public interest demands that flagrant and repeating offenders be punished by denial of driver's licences, maximum fines or long jail terms.

"In terms of the terrible tolls he exacts," Hoover said, "the death driver—with reason and conscience blinded by intoxicants, lust for speed or other disdain for traffic laws—can indeed be classed as today's public enemy No. 1."

He asserted that the annual death toll of more than 100 lives a day snuffed out in auto accidents "is assuredly an indictment of our national mentality and regard for life."

Victoria Officer Fined for Smuggling

HALIFAX (CP)—Investigations into disappearances of money and supplies from ships and establishments of the Navy's Atlantic Command continued Wednesday. The inquiries are the most extensive since 1955.

A navy spokesman said the latest investigation aboard the frigate Outremont involved a quantity of liquor which vanished from the ship.

An RCMP official later said Lieutenant H. J. Stuart of Victoria, supply officer aboard the Outremont, appeared Tuesday before a civilian judge on a smuggling charge involving liquor. He was fined $100.

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY

A seaman from the Outremont is being held "in naval protective custody" pending completion of the frigate inquiry, being conducted by the RCMP and Halifax city police.

Four of seven frigates based here sailed for exercises Wednesday. The Outremont remained in port. Two others are in refit.

Since early October, three petty officers and a leading seaman have appeared before navy courts-martial on theft charges. All but one petty officer were convicted and given jail terms.

$2,000 STOLEN

Two petty officers were convicted of stealing nearly $2,000 from the Stadacona naval base supply stores.

A leading seaman from the frigate Lauzon was given a six-month jail sentence and discharged from the navy for stealing $385 in canteen funds. A petty officer from the Lauzon, charged with theft, and possession of $2,750 in canteen funds, was acquitted.

ALL SEPARATE

The navy said Wednesday the cases were unconnected. "They are all absolutely separate," a spokesman said.

"As of today there are two investigations under way," he said. "As of today there are no more pending."

The RCMP is still investigating alleged misappropriations of an undisclosed amount of equipment from the navy's big fleet reserve base near Sydney. A police spokesman says a quantity of material has been seized but it has not been determined whether it belongs to the navy.

Power Cost 'Shocks' Newcomers

Former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs told the Shrum Royal Commission yesterday that persons moving from other cities to either Victoria or Vancouver are "shocked and amazed" at power costs.

(See inquiry stories on Pages 8 and 9.)

Mr. Briggs said if persons have moved to either of the two cities from Seattle or Winnipeg, Toronto or Hamilton, Tacoma, Los Angeles, Fort William or Ottawa, "their electricity bills are not higher by a few per cent, they are doubled or tripled."

Mother Escapes

Girl, 4, Smothers As Home Burns

COURTENAY (CP)—A four-year-old girl died, apparently from asphyxiation, in a house fire in downtown Courtenay Wednesday night.

Pronounced dead on arrival at hospital in Comox was Terry La Fortune, daughter of Mrs. Jennie La Fortune, who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Mrs. La Fortune was in the home when the fire broke out, but escaped. Two older children were staying with relatives.

The children's father is reported to have been in hospital in Chemainus when the fire broke out.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

John Foster Dulles, U.S. secretary of state, is back at work after a bout with a "virus infection."

Every reader of this item now imagines that he knows what was wrong with Mr. Dulles. He has heard the phrase with a smooth professional ring to it.

"Those doctors know a thing or two," the reader says, with a wink. "They look at a patient and right away they can tell what ails him."

However, there are thousands of different viruses in the world, many of them so small that they can not be seen in a microscope. Some are so small that they can not be filtered out by putting salt on their tails.

Which virus was it that attacked Mr. Dulles?

I understand that smallpox, yellow fever, poliomyelitis and measles are caused by viruses. If Mr. Dulles had suffered an attack of smallpox or yellow fever, we would have heard about it.

Invisible, Nameless

So the trouble must have been caused by some other virus, or by a number of viruses working together as a team.

The chances are that the doctors don't know which virus was the culprit. Not only are they unable to see a number of the viruses; they don't even know them by name.

Could they find out, perhaps, by threats and bluff?

"All right, you viruses, which of you did it? Well, you can stay right there inside Mr. Dulles until one of you owns up."

Blamed for Everything

Since a number of viruses are invisible to everyone, including doctors, how do we know the little fellows are there at all? We have only the doctors' word for it.

Well, doctors are an honest bunch, and if they say there's a virus inside someone, I'll believe them.

However, I suspect that just because the viruses are such shy little fellows, the doctors seize the chance to blame them for anything that happens.

Some of the viruses, I believe, are known merely by numbers. They have no names. Perhaps this is the reason why they are so hostile. They feel that they have been scorned and neglected. All they need is love.

Perhaps if they were given names, they would feel that they "belonged," and would turn into friendly, well-adjusted little pets.

It wouldn't be much trouble to name them after former prime ministers, or Arab politicians.

"I can't diagnose this," a doctor mutters. "Never mind," a colleague assures him. "Just blame the viruses. They're an unruly crowd anyway."

Told that he has a virus infection, the average patient probably goes home contentedly to curl up with a bottle of rye and a bowl of consomme.

He believes, as millions of people in the world believe, that as soon as you invent a name for something, you know all about it, and have it licked.

Critic Expelled

Students Demand Dismissal Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Federation of Canadian University Students Wednesday called for an independent inquiry into the dismissal of physics student Normand Lacharite from Laval University in Quebec City.

Mortimer Bistrisky, president of the 70,000-member NFCUS, said at a press conference that the inquiry should be conducted by a commission of students from universities other than Laval.

Lacharite was dismissed from Laval after he wrote an editorial in the campus newspaper Le Carabin criticizing the oblate fathers who administer the University of Ottawa.

There were two other major developments at the conference Wednesday.

First, is was disclosed that NFCUS is organizing a second Canadian tour of Russia and other Iron Curtain countries.

Second, president Bistrisky said NFCUS is opposed to the suggestion of a large-scale Commonwealth exchange of students until needs at home are met by government aid.

But the Lacharite case took most of the limelight.

Bistrisky said NFCUS is concerned "with the arbitrary manner in which students are thrown out of university without a hearing. Arbitrary dismissal of the sort is completely foreign and contrary to the Canadian way of life."

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—The high authority of the six-nation European coal and steel community announced here Wednesday it would authorize the merger into one huge steel company controlled by Alfried Krupp, of Huetten Und Bergwerke Rheinhausen AG, and the Bochumer Verein.

Moon and Back Flight Claimed As Early Step

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—The weekly newspaper Landstem yesterday quoted a Russian scientist as saying the Soviet Union expects to land men on Venus and Mars in September.

Anatoly Balgonravov, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, was quoted as saying the man to make the first space flight to another planet already had been chosen, and that the Soviet Union hoped also to send scientists to the moon and back by the end of the year.

Passenger chosen for the first space vehicle was named as Ivan Igorsky, 30, a bachelor who is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds.

Landstem quoted Blagonravov:

"There is no more need for us to carry out tests. We have done all that is necessary."

He said the next step by Soviet scientists will be to "launch a scientist in a 'planet' to at least 400 miles above the earth.

"The man will control the planet and have water and food in tablet form.

"In June, we are going to try to land a 'planet' on Venus and Mars and we expect to have success.

"We will then land men on Venus and Mars in September. We are not expecting any difficulty, as the latest 'planet' has completed all our experiments."

In Orbit Around Sun

'Planet' Nears Top Velocity

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities said Wednesday night that the cosmic rocket Mechta has swung into orbit around the sun and is approaching its top speed of about 72,000 miles an hour, or about 20 miles a second.

This is nearly three times as fast as the speed of the launching Friday.

Tass said the rocket had covered more than 9,000,000 miles since it was fired.

All figures reported on Mechta's performance are now based on scientific calculations, not direct observations.

Soviet scientists predict the rocket may come sufficiently close to earth in the remote future to permit further observations. Its course is charted to swing it between Earth and Mars.

Russian scientists were quoted as saying the orbit of the artificial planet would be closer to Mars than Earth.

Satellite Set to Go

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 1,300-pound satellite—the first ever to be launched on the west coast—is on its pad at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Some time within the next few days Project Discoverer will be under way, headed for a pole-to-pole orbit.

A dozen or more Discoverer satellites will be launched from the California coast this year.

Lumber Trade Up Despite Shutdown

Despite five weeks of total inactivity, when longshoremen were on strike, lumber shipments out of Ogden Point docks totalled a healthy 108,000,000 board feet in 1958.

While not a record, this figure represents an increase of 30 per cent over the previous year's shipments.

CNR dock superintendent Stanley Albertson said this increase is mainly due to an upturn in the U.S. Atlantic seaboard market for lumber.

There was also an increase in shipments to the U.K., and to a lesser extent, Australia.

Japan, which was a small buyer of lumber in 1957, took none at all last year. Steady customer was South Africa which bought 23,000,000 board feet.

The freighter Pacific Unity which made an unscheduled call here after a breakdown in its cargo refrigeration unit, is expected to sail tonight.

The ship was several hours out of Seattle bound for the U.K. when the emergency occurred.

In port here, the general cargo was shifted while workmen sought out the leaky pipe which caused the breakdown. Local shipping agents King Bros. Ltd. took the opportunity to load some general cargo for Britain.

Due here today is the American Maru which will load 1,000 tons of flax for Japan.

Shipping in Up-Island ports today includes the Wangaratta and Trinity Pioneer, Chemainus; Michael G. Levanos, Nanaimo; Duncan Bay, Duncan Bay; Komei Maru, Tahsis; Geddington Court, Bessenggen and Hardanger, Alberni.

They Loved Joe —But He's Out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Joe Martin laid aside the cane he had used since last summer when he suffered a blood clot in his leg. He marched jauntily into his party's caucus armed with a two-page testimonial from Dr. Paul Dudley White, the heart specialist. Dr. White pronounced him recovered and in the pink of condition.

When Martin left the closed-door session in the house chamber two hours later, Dr. White's letter lay crumpled in his pocket. Joe made his slow way, limping, through Statuary Hall and back to his office. He was tired. He was 74. The sickness he felt in his heart was not the kind Dr. White treats.

After 20 years as house Republican leader or speaker, during years fat for his party and some that were painfully thin, Joe Martin had been turned out to pasture. Tears he wasn't willing to shed welled up in his eyes.

Sure, his old friends gave him a standing ovation. They offered him a new, hollow title. They shook his hand and wished him good luck. They said—and it was true, almost to a man—they loved him still.

JOE MARTIN
. . . tears welled up

But they voted, 74 to 70, to replace him as party leader with Charlie Halleck, his rival.

"They did what is done for all dead men," Joe told reporters. They sent flowers.

Joe's friends had told him to disregard the revolt that had been brewing among younger Republicans since Nov. 4, when the GOP was reduced to 153 House members against 282 for the Democrats.

To most observers it had seemed unthinkable that more votes would be cast against than for the name of Joe Martin. It was a name known to millions. Martin's unruly black hair, his beetle brow and fierce grin, his stocky figure, were Capitol landmarks.

To many Americans, who watched or heard Martin's heavy-handed use of the gavel at five consecutive Republican national conventions, Martin had come to symbolize the old guard of the GOP.

That no doubt, was part of his downfall.

Mountie Slugged In Drug Raid

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP officer was slugged with an iron bar in a brief but violent battle during a drug raid on a Kitsilano area home Wednesday.

The raid resulted in seizure of nearly 100 capsules of white powder and arrest of two men.

Several stitches were required to close the wound in the head of Constable Dell Klatt.

An occupant of the house slugged Constable Katt when officers burst in, but was subdued after a struggle.

The raid followed an earlier one on a Granville Street rooming house where two men and a woman were arrested and 10 capsules of white powder were seized.

Banker Plays Cops and Robbers

'Everybody on Floor'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A nattily dressed man marched into a branch of the Lincoln savings bank of Brooklyn yesterday and shouted: "everybody down on the floor."

Everybody—eight bank employees and four customers—got down fast. Chief clerk Charles Reppolo, 40, reached out for the silent burglar alarm as he dropped.

Thirty policemen rushed to the bank.

Paul McGuirk, vice president of the bank and manager of the branch, met them at the door. It was all a mistake, he said. The "hold-up man" was Augustus C. Froeb, of Westhampton, senior trustee of the banking institution.

"I just wanted to see if they were all alert," Froeb told police.

Sewers Searched for Stolen Baby

Mother Clings to Hope

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police searched sewers, cellars and the Coney Island beach yesterday for the body of a newborn infant kidnapped from a hospital nursery last Friday, but the baby's mother clung to the intuition that she still was alive.

Mrs. Frances Chionchio, 26, and her lawyer husband, Frank, 28, held a news conference at the home of her parents at which they appealed again for the return of Lisa Rose Chionchio, who was stolen from St. Peter's Hospital, apparently by a bleached blonde woman, when she was scarcely 2½ hours old.

They announced they were launching a fund for a reward for information leading to return of the child. Their contribution was $100. They invited others to support their tragic cause.

Mrs. Chionchio, mother of a year-old daughter, said she had an "intuitive mother's feeling" that her kidnapped baby was still alive.

"I won't give up thinking that until the FBI tells me she is dead," she said. "I have been hoping that she would be returned in a few minutes—or at least a couple of hours—ever since this happened."

Rest in Okanagan For Royal Pair?

KELOWNA (CP) — The Daily Courier says Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will visit the Okanagan valley next summer and probably will rest for a few days here.

The Queen is scheduled to open the St. Lawrence Seaway in June. Later, she will tour western Canada, spending about two weeks in B.C. A proposed itinerary for the tour is being drafted in Ottawa.

The Courier says the Kelowna Board of Trade received a letter from tour commissioner H. D. Graham of Ottawa saying Kelowna is "a delightful place" and "will not be forgotten."

Princess Margaret spent four days here last summer.

Why did he want to write to Hitler?

Here, for the first time, is the real story of King George VI, written at the Queen's request. Read how he viewed the happenings of his troubled reign. Why did he want Lord Halifax as his wartime premier? What was his opinion of President Roosevelt? How did he feel about Princess Elizabeth's marriage to Prince Philip?

Hitherto unpublished letters from his diaries, from the Roosevelt memoirs, and other sources, give us a new insight into the character of the man who made the British Monarchy the object of envy and admiration around the world.

Highway to Alaska

ALASKA'S emergence as the 49th state of the Union is causing a new look to be taken at international communications. This is a matter of vital interest to British Columbia, because the only land access Alaskans can have to the other 48 states, and vice versa, is through B.C. Sea and air communications between the states offer no problems, but a passageway by land whether road or rail requires a high degree of international accord.

At present the Alaska—or Alcan—Highway, originally built as a wartime military road, is the only land link between the isolated 49th state and the other 48. Most of its Canadian mileage passes through British Columbia, with a loop into the Yukon Territory. To be brought up to arterial highway standards it needs some reconstruction and extensive surfacing, at enormous cost; one estimate places the cost of the Canadian section at $120,000,000.

Improvement of the Alcan Highway to accommodate traffic between Alaska and Washington State would be of material benefit to British Columbia because of the tourist and other trade it would promote along the route. It would be manifestly unfair, however, to expect British Columbia to undertake construction which primarily would be for the benefit of the United States. Before the formalities of statehood for Alaska were completed a United States senator suggested a Canadian-U.S. partnership to share the capital cost equally.

Highways Minister Gaglardi agrees with this division of cost with respect to either improvement of the Alcan Highway or construction of an entirely new north-south road link. Under his proposal B.C. would accept responsibility for maintenance of the completed highway or highways. In that way B.C. would receive vitally important communications at no cost to begin with but at considerable annual expense thereafter. This looks like a fair bargain for the Province, since the expense of upkeep would have set off against it returns from gasoline tax and the new trade which international travel and transportation would bring.

If an agreement such as this could be worked out for highways why not for a railway also? Visionaries have always looked to the ultimate extension of the PGE Railway to Alaska. Since the war steel has been laid a large part of the way. If the gap could be closed with assistance from Canada and the United States, the once maligned PGE could become one of the most important railways in North America. Let no one forget, however, that it is British Columbia's railway.

Testing the Climate

AMERICAN news dispatches of Mr. Anastas Mikoyan's presence in the United States reflect the kind of desire characteristic of this continent. Nobody wants a war. Commentators are thus reading into the visit of the Soviet deputy premier an easement of the Berlin situation, which is fraught with trouble. Whether this is wishful thinking or has some real basis of belief remains to be seen. Like all Soviet diplomats, Mr. Mikoyan is too cagey to be caught napping.

For instance he is reported to have replied to one question that "one does not change a good position." Applied to the Berlin dispute it indicates Russia is going ahead with its plan to turn over East Berlin to the East German regime. The four occupying powers are in the former German capital by formal agreement and East Germany is a Soviet satellite, but presumably no bar exists to a voluntary withdrawal by any one of the four. That such a move by Russia would in essence be a gesture more than a reality would not offset the appearance of withdrawal.

On the other hand Mr. Mikoyan is quoted as saying that continued access by the West to Berlin "could be arranged." This phraseology is worth noting. It could mean much or little. It implies also that the West would have to "arrange" the matter with East Germany, which would be a diplomatic gain for Russia, but temptingly preferable to the risks of an air lift if access were made awkward.

Why Mr. Mikoyan is in the United States at all has caused speculation, for he is too big a Soviet VIP merely to be a tourist even if his visit is unofficial. Quite probably he came to sound out American thought, to size up U.S. leaders and their attitudes; to test the climate of opinion. The Soviet hierarchy may well wish first-hand information at this stage of the Berlin and other international disputes. His visit therefore could have good result, if only to dispel any ideas that the West is weakening. One scarcely imagines he will go back with that impression after his round of high-level talks.

Research Pays Off

IN ALL OF the years that British Columbia has been benefiting from the development of its primary resources in timber, ores, fish and soil products only sketchy and uneven attention has been given to the economic position in the future. The Dominion has contributed notable research in marine biology and matters relating to the fisheries, equalled perhaps in its experimental farms which test many different divisions of agriculture. The B.C. Research Council also has done fine work. Comparatively little has been done in a major way on future potentials in connection with British Columbia's largest and steadiest producers, the mines and the forests. Research there has been carried on principally on a "request" basis. It is research that pays off.

In the immediate future all four primary occupations in the province may be entering a period of change and readjustment in world trade which could present fresh demands and different problems. There has always been a market for frozen fish, but the canned product is not always as easy to market. B.C. fruits have known good years and bad years, with successful marketing again as the barometer. Coal has slumped badly in B.C.'s domestic economy, even while oil and gas promise recompense. In forest products the province still deals in sawn lumber and pulp derivates as the ways to market.

Yet British Columbia has intrinsically good facilities for intensified research on its primary resources, if these were correlated and stepped up. There are literally hundreds of derivates in wood beyond saw logs and pulp mash. Coal, with its tar base, is even more complex. Of B.C.'s 27 food varieties of fish, about three are handled extensively. In common ores there is more of a problem — and it may be for a while one of world over-supply. Research, adequately employed, is a good key to the future. We should have more of it.

Interpreting the News

Color and Contiguity

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE Belgian Congo riots are another symptom of black Africa's hunger for independence and equality. But they involve new aspects of the black man's struggle.

Under the test is the Belgian system of colonial administration, which in the past has been strong in economic welfare, and weaker on political rights.

Britain and France—with their differing colonial systems—already have felt the full weight of militant African independence movements, and have reacted in their own ways. Now it is Belgium's turn.

It seems certain that the Congo's troubles arise partly from its close social association with neighboring French Equatorial Africa, which attained a measure of independence by recently electing to remain with Premier Charles de Gaulle's French community of nations.

The Congo, sitting athwart the equator, also borders the British colonies of Northern Rhodesia, Tanganyika and Uganda, all of which are more highly developed politically.

The policy of the British has for years been to extend and teach self-government to its African colonies, as exemplified by the emergence of Ghana as an independent member of the British Commonwealth.

The Belgian philosophy has been first to fulfil the physical needs of the Africans; bring social change slowly but inevitably; and hold in abeyance all thought of political autonomy.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A FRIEND of mine is also reading Montgomery's memoirs these days, and we compared notes. We agreed it is the kind of book that is hard to put down.

It certainly makes an indelible impression.

This comes from the forceful, clean-cut prose. Montgomery writes as apparently he talked, straight from the shoulder. And the dynamism of the man shines on every page.

The memoirs are egotistical. Not offensively so, but obviously Montgomery thought that what the doctor ordered was all right only when he was the doctor. His saving grace in this respect is that usually his was the correct diagnosis of the situation.

* * *

Lawrence of Arabia said of his Seven Pillars he was fighting on his own middin. Montgomery is equally frank. Other leaders of the last war have written their accounts; this, says Monty, is his.

And it stands high out of the ruck.

Attention so far has been centred mainly on the controversies to which coalition commands are prone, and to Montgomery's part in these disputes. One should read all the chief war books so far published to balance for oneself the pros and cons, but doing that it is hard to escape the conclusion Montgomery was easily the best field general of them all.

He knew always what he was about; one doubts that can be said of all his contemporaries.

Indeed the prevailing impression of his memoirs is that here was a commander who knew his stuff. He expresses a salutary thought when he says it is not enough to learn about war merely by experience of the battlefield; a commander must study his art.

That Montgomery did. He spent hours each day just thinking—about strategy, about morale, about the enemy and how he could outwit him. This threw a terrific load on his staff, but it left his mind crystal-clear for the major decisions.

* * *

Quite the best chapter in the book, in fact, is that which sets out his concept of command. It should be a textbook for future commanders-in-chief. His discussion of the various factors involved, and particularly his emphasis on an army's basic material, men—as it is also, he adds, of industry as well—is vastly revealing.

Few commanders there have been who could analyse articulately their theory of battle and then harness their words to action as, of course, Montgomery did with conspicuous success.

It was his good fortune to be a junior officer in the first war; he saw there how generalship could be palsied, as it was. That was an era when defensive weapons outweighed offensive weapons, but even so the lack of imagination appalled him.

In high command he himself never lacked imagination, or plans. He had a fetish about planning, but that was simply a facet of his mastery of the military art.

Montgomery couldn't have been right in everything. But this book is proof how lucky we were that he led our armies. It shows also, I think, that since Wellington there hasn't been a British general like him.

Reports from Ottawa

RATHER suddenly, after some years of quiescence, the question of Canadian membership in the Organization of American States has come up again.

The immediate cause was Foreign Minister Smith's visit to Brazil, Peru and Mexico last month. Brazilians particularly pressed upon Smith the thought that an important future in terms of influence in hemispheric affairs awaits Canada in the OAS.

Against this importuning, the dramatic events in Cuba seem somehow closer to home. These people—the Fulgencio Batistas as well as the Fidel Castros—would be our allies in this "American Commonwealth" if we took that "vacant chair" re-upholstered for us when the Union of American Republics transformed itself into the Organization of American States a dozen years ago. Canada is not a republic.

Diplomatically, and in the United Nations, we have a friendly, arm's length relationship with the Latinos. Do we want it any other way? In Ottawa you get the impression that the answer is "no."

* * *

Why not join the OAS? What have we got to lose?

Part of the answer to the latter question is "dollars." Most of the Latin American republics are economically underdeveloped, and their governments are in poor financial shape. Argentina is currently getting emergency aid to forestall economic collapse—a loan of $329,000,000 from the U.S. government, the International Monetary Fund, 10 U.S. banks and the Royal Bank of Canada. Brazil is about as badly off, what with poor coffee prices and rampant inflation. These are the leading nations of Latin America.

* * *

Canada would be the first new member of their club in about half a century. The Latinos regard us as a "have" country, like the U.S. They must have foreign capital for economic development. Many of them harbor fiercely nationalistic resentment towards U.S. capital. They would not only welcome Canadian capital; they would expect the new sister state to come through handsomely.

Smith returned from Brazil shocked at anti-Americanism there, and conscious that the Brazilians want Canada in the OAS to counterbalance the U.S. The fact that the Latinos mainly resent their economic dependence on the U.S. makes it rather obvious what kind of counterbalancing Canada would be expected to do.

* * *

The prevailing view in Ottawa seems to be that Canada has enough international commitments on its hands without assuming more in the OAS. Yet we cannot ignore Latin American attitudes and events. We trade in Latin America, and want to trade more. We appreciate the value of 20 Latin American votes at the UN. We share U.S. apprehension lest the Latinos in their desperation or in their spite accept economic aid in the form of rubles.

Smith expressed the view that Canadian involvement in OAS affairs might increase friction between Ottawa and Washington. That argument does not ring true. I suspect the Americans would be delighted to have us in the OAS.

We would counterbalance anti-Americanism in the area with pro-Canadianism.

We would counterbalance the Russian trade and aid offensive there.

If we succeeded in all the counterbalancing that might be expected of us, we'd be the counterbalancingest country in the world.

But what with the counterbalancing we've been doing between Quebec and the rest of the country for nearly 200 years, we should be pretty good at it.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ON OUR stairway, at the landing, is a light fixture that calls for one of those bar-shaped fluorescent bulbs about 12 inches long and an inch in diameter.

It is not the sort of thing you would lay in a supply of as you would, say, a dozen 60-watt ordinary bulbs. For some obscure reason buried in human nature, you always buy one at a time. Maybe it's the price.

Anyway, the blame thing was always burning out. About every two or three months the landing was left in darkness through the failure of this fluorescent tube; and it became somebody's duty, usually mine, to drop into the nearest shop on the way home, (which is not easy to remember) and pick one up. It was usually three or four days before the landing got lit up again.

Well, about a year and one month ago I decided to be practical. I bought two of the things. Now, I pointed out, we have always got a spare, and it will be the time after next that the landing will be left in darkness for two or three days.

Do you know what?

With the spare on the closet shelf, that fluorescent bar has lasted 13 months! Threatened by the presence of competition, that fixture may last for years, all through the '60's. It may last forever.

When I say I was being practical in buying a spare, maybe I was being mystical. How do you explain mysteries like this in terms of the practical?

Substitute For Strikes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

THE American people are unhappy about the strikes that have been depriving them of essential services. Members of Congress are hearing from the country about it.

Just what can be done? The "right to strike" has long been considered inherent in our constitutional system because the individual has the right to work or to quit work as he pleases. But where the public interest is damaged, the law can properly step in and restrict the right of any organized group to act concertedly in preventing others from working.

Thus, for example, there is no right to strike against the government itself, whether it be federal or state or city government. Nobody can be required to work for the government.

Actually, when the government seizes an industry, no union may tell its members not to work. To do so constitutes an interference with the court orders usually issued at the request of governmental authorities.

* * *

Labor unions are lawful insofar as they follow the individual desires of their members; but where two or more persons act in concert to bring about the interruption of an essential service, there is opened a field for restriction. The law can limit such economic action. In this sense a group of individuals has no more right to damage the public interest than has a corporation.

The remedy heretofore applied has been government seizure of an essential industry. But this has never proved a satisfactory solution. It has in it elements of coercion, distasteful to a free society.

For years students of the problem have examined a variety of proposed solutions. The Taft-Hartley Act today provides for a no-strike moratorium for 80 days during a so-called "cooling-off" period. But a politically minded president can ignore it rather than antagonize those labor leaders who supported him in his election campaign. So it is not desirable to make any solution dependent upon presidential discretion. Likewise, because it is known that after 80 days the same situation will arise as before, the tendency is to wait out the period and go at the fight again.

* * *

The idea of mandatory arbitration, if no agreement is reached during a fixed period of negotiation, has always been given moral support by disinterested observers. The trouble with the plan is that impartial arbitrators are not easy to get. There has been in the past talk in Congress of setting up a labor court for strike emergencies, to be composed of judges selected from a panel of federal jurists regularly on the bench.

The labor unions have not liked this approach because they have believed it legalistic and that the decisions are not likely to penetrate the human questions that frequently give rise to deadlocks.

Employers, on the other hand, have feared that arbitrators would ignore the financial capacity of a smaller company competing with a larger one, or else that too much power would be given the neutral arbitrator because, as a rule, each side picks an arbitrator and the two select a third, who is supposed to be neutral.

If laws were passed providing some system whereby a permanent panel of arbitrators, comprising outstanding persons in every industry, were established—with all three arbitrators assigned by the government—there might be a better chance for the principle of arbitration to be accepted.

* * *

Union labor has more to gain than to lose in finding some substitute for the strike weapon. The economic losses to the country from recent strikes were staggering. The amount gained by the unions is infinitesimal compared to the indirect losses they have suffered. Also, as public opinion becomes irritated and antagonized by frequent strikes, the whole cause of self-organization may be impaired by hostile legislation.

Governmental authority today fixes the rates to be charged to customers by public utilities. But no public body fixes the wages that may be charged which can force those rates upward.

The "public interest" in labor disputes is far-reaching. Some day real statesmanship will have to be displayed in Congress to find a solution that is fair to the worker and to the employer and to the public, which the government represents. What seems logical is a system of arbitration, made mandatory perhaps only after federal mediators have reported that one side or the other in an essential industry has adopted an unreasonable and arbitrary position which can severely damage the public interest through a prolonged strike.

'Not One of Us'

(By Telegraph)

Current press and radio reports identifying a Glade, B.C., Doukhobor recently arrested in connection with dynamite transportation are entirely false and, as usual, deliberately malicious.

The Fraternal Council of the Reformed Doukhobors hereby reject the insidious implication for what it really is. Penal Reform

It is refreshing to note that the life of another condemned man has been spared, with sentence commuted to life imprisonment. For this, and I say it non-politically, the federal government should be commended.

Capital punishment coupled with prison reform has long been a topic of controversy; one which has many practical implications both pro and con. Only in the last few years has the primitive idea "an eye for an eye, etc." been replaced by a more realistic and broader approach to our penal system.

Today, fortunately, modern psychology is playing an increasingly important role in the better understanding of criminal behavior and motivations, rather than the pattern of strict conformity previously adhered to.

The belief that a guilty verdict followed by the clang of prison doors compensates in full for the crime no longer is acceptable. Penitentiaries today are primarily designed to lead the inmate back along the highway to eventual rehabilitation.

True, there are incorrigibles who could never fling off their habitual criminal make-up, but they are in a minority compared to those who have successfully adjusted themselves to society.

Like anything else there is still room for improvement but the tremendous strides taken in this direction certainly are encouraging. Overcrowding is critical at the moment but steps have already been taken to alleviate this situation.

This new trend away from the executioner creates a healthy outlook, more so for the unfortunate souls whose crimes are provoked by extenuating circumstances rather than premeditation. Perhaps stiffer measures should be adopted to deal with the diehard hoodlums who have proved themselves beyond redemption.

Information Pool

In a letter to the editor, Mr. J. A. A. George asks if it is not possible for a Canadian government to receive information concerning Mr. Wenner-Gren's dealings with the Rhodesian government from that sister member of the Commonwealth.

If there were a Commonwealth Secretariat with a central office where information could be readily available to all Commonwealth governments, as proposed by the Victoria branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society in September, 1957, this question would not have to be asked. This Wenner-Gren deal emphasizes the need and importance of a Commonwealth Secretariat.

The Market

I am writing on behalf of some of our most honored citizens of this fair city—the farmers, "the salt of the earth," who have served us and worked so hard all these years for the public and tourists to provide fresh fruit and vegetables and dairy produce and many kinds of plants—they would be dreadfully missed.

The chain stores do a splendid business but there is room for the people in the market as well. The market place should have a cool underground store for meat, fish and dairy produce, and a storage for every member. I hope a petition will not have to be made. I should like to trust our city fathers to give them a fair deal.

B.C. Fishermen Net Record Haul in 1958

British Columbia fishermen set a new record last year when they landed fish valued at $51,500,000.

Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean announced Tuesday the catch exceeded the 1951 record by nearly $11,000,000 despite the strike during the early part of the year by herring fishermen.

Department of fisheries records show the largest sockeye catch in 50 years in 1958, and the best fall herring catch in history. The salmon catch totalled $36,393,000 with sockeye, mainly from the Fraser River, accounting for more than half.

Cohn ranked second, because of higher unit prices for troll-caught fish, with catch valued at $5,373,000. Others are: spring salmon, $3,935,000; chums, $3,513,000; pinks, $3,106,000.

It was the third largest herring catch, with fish valued at $6,605,000, exceeded only by catches in 1956 and 1948.

The crab and shrimp crop set another record, with the catch valued at $664,000, an increase of 20 per cent over last year.

Halibut landings totalled 28,838,000 pounds valued at $3,171,000; grey cod, the highest catch recorded, $353,000; black cod dropped 60 per cent as compared with 1957 and was valued at only $70,000.

Ling cod landings were about the same as 1957 and valued at $376,000.

Maj. Grant Promoted

Statistics Show Heavy 1958 Traffic

Emergencies Kept Hospitals Busy

Emergency wards of Victoria's two major hospitals had a busier year in 1958 than the year before. Between them, Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals handled 23,241 emergency cases last year; 21,156 in 1957.

One development pleased both institutions: there were fewer traffic accidents during the Christmas-New Year's week than usual—a fact attributed to good driving weather and heavy "good-driving" publicity.

Although Jubilee made no separation of accident types handled during the holiday period, St. Joseph's noted that of 231 emergency ward cases handled in the week (compared with 201 in 1957), only nine were traffic victims. In 1957 these totalled 14.

During the festive season, as always, both emergency wards were ready for whatever might come their way. Both operate on a 24-hour schedule, and both can have an emergency patient fully prepared for surgery within 10 to 20 minutes of arrival.

Of the 1958 total, Jubilee handled 12,200 emergency cases and St. Joseph's 11,041; 10,600 and St. Joseph's 10,556.

Accident cases in 1958—mostly in the home—included 7,513 at Jubilee in 1958 as against 6,650 in 1957.

At St. Joseph's minor cases totalled 5,528 in 1958; 5,257 in 1957. Traffic cases at the same hospital in 1958 were 331, compared with 329 the previous year.

[illegible] during the recent holiday season, three were little boys whose fathers had trodden on their fingers while they were playing with new toys.

Guides Set Sights On Major Project

If the Greater Victoria Girl Guides' Association raises enough money to develop its 160-acre camp site near Sooke, international Guide gatherings there may become a reality.

Mrs. A. G. Gosling, Greater Victoria area Guide commissioner, said here yesterday that she "hoped to interest" the international Guide movement in using the association's camp for large get-togethers.

The association is launching its first public campaign this week for funds to develop the camp site.

Mrs. Gosling said the $10,000 objective will be sought from ex-Guides and service clubs.

She hoped part of the money — about $4,500 — will be raised at a "festival of camping" on March 21 in the Bay Street Armory. Thirty thousand tickets will be printed for the festival, which includes camping demonstrations by Guides, and various exhibits.

Buried Man Saves Self

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A workman trapped for more than 12 hours at the bottom of a collapsed cesspool was rescued yesterday.

A heavy crane finally jerked loose a metal plate pinning Leslie O. Stafford's foot at the bottom of the 24-foot hole and he pulled himself free.

Stafford, 40 and husky, had spent agonizing hours trying to free himself. His rescuers said he appeared to be in excellent condition.

Because of the close quarters and the danger of shifting sand, no one else could reach Stafford's foot. Someone stayed with him in the shaft to offer encouragement but he had to do the work of freeing his foot alone.

Stafford was buried alive Tuesday when the walls of the cesspool collapsed around him. His colleagues started digging immediately, but no one expected to find him alive.

It took four hours to uncover one gloved hand. When they saw it, the rescuers called for the coroner and he was lowered into the hole to supervise removal of what everyone thought was a dead body. The hand twitched.

With frantic haste the rescuers dug deeper until Stafford's head was uncovered. Then they learned that another piece of the casing—the same kind that had him pinned—fell over his face, giving him breathing space under the tons of dirt covering him.

Camel Vents Spleen On Harmless Car

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A driver returning home Tuesday night met a camel on the road.

Irritated by the glaring headlights, the camel jumped onto the car top and stamped and wrecked it, then took off into the darkness.

It had escaped from an Epiphany procession.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour (Checks "plate odor breath"). Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Rewrite Fire Law, Chicago Jury Says

CHICAGO (UPI) — A coroner's jury yesterday recommended sweeping retroactive changes in Chicago's fire code to prevent another tragedy like the parochial school fire Dec. 1, in which 90 children and three nuns died.

Very Rev. Msgr. William McManus, superintendent of Chicago's Roman Catholic schools, said the verdict made it "perfectly clear that the fire was an accident."

He said the archdiocese would apply the recommendations to its schools at a cost estimated between $8,000,000 and $12,000,000.

Recommendations dealt with [illegible] items, fire alarm improvements, classroom overcrowding, and proper construction of stairwells and flues.

"We plan to act on the recommendations," fire commissioner Robert Quinn said. "Of course, we can only put into practice the recommendations which are reasonable."

Castro Bans Gambling

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuba's new 30-year-old national police chief Aldo Vera clamped a temporary ban on all gambling in this tourist mecca yesterday under an edict issued by Fidel Castro that "gambling and the numbers racket are ended."

The new government also acted to halt the export from the country of all Batista funds and to assure a normal harvest of the island's vital sugar crop.

Castro, meanwhile, slowly moved toward a triumphant entry into the capital. He was 50 miles away early today.

Vera denounced organized gambling as "destructive to the people's morals and contributive to poverty."

One of the casinos—the De Capri — is owned by movie tough guy George Raft, who sought a meeting with President Urrutia to find out the status of his swank gambling palace.

Some victorious rebels are complaining about the "second-class" treatment they are getting from the forces they conquered.

Rebel soldiers here say they must sleep on the floors of barracks while members of the Cuban army slumber on bunks and add they often are not fed.

Because rebel control of this and other areas still has not been stabilized, many of the revolutionary troops have had to depend on the sympathetic populace for food and shelter.

Huge Haul Chased By Castro

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. immigration service said yesterday its agents probably will search two Cuban yachts at Key West, Fla., for $17,000,000 said to have been taken after the fall of the Batista government.

In Miami, the new Cuban government asked the U.S. to seize the money, but courts apparently have no jurisdiction.

The Castro regime said the money was spirited away by Senator Rolando Masferrer, Batista's top hatchet man.

'Irrelevant' Issues Heard Despite BCE Objections

Columbia River and Peace River proposed power developments and public power versus private power arguments were introduced into the Shrum royal commission hearings yesterday in spite of objections of B.C. Electric vice-president A. Bruce Robertson and commission counsel E. A. Alexander.

Both men claimed the discussions were irrelevant and outside the terms of reference of the royal commission into B.C. Power Commission financing and operations.

"I think we might wisely let Mr. Briggs make his statements and we would leave it to the commission to decide whether it is relevant to the inquiry," Dr. Gordon Shrum said.

Shrum Calls for Correction

Gibbs Statement Protested

Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the royal commission into B.C. Power Commission operations, yesterday called on P. A. Gibbs, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, to correct statements he had made over a CBC free time political broadcast Monday night.

Dr. Shrum said Mr. Gibbs had stated that the royal commissioners had refused Mr. Briggs permission to cross-examine Dr. J. V. Fisher when he appeared as a witness at the commission hearings in Victoria.

"That is absolutely contrary to the facts as the transcript will show," Dr. Shrum said. He added that Mr. Briggs had said he did not wish to cross-examine at that time, but would cross-examine when the witness was recalled later.

Dr. Shrum said Mr. Gibbs should have his statements corrected at the start of the next CBC political broadcast at 10.15 Monday.

Mr. Briggs' counsel, Hugh McGivern, said he and his client wished to be dissociated with the statements attributed to Mr. Gibbs. "We had no knowledge of them," he said.

Accountants Mysteriously Moved In on Commission

Audit Boss Shunned Him, Briggs Says

Former B.C. Power Commission General manager H. Lee Briggs told the Shrum royal commission yesterday that after auditors "mysteriously" moved in on the power commission in October, 1958, the head of the firm, G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, said he did not want to be seen leaving the office with him (Briggs).

H. LEE BRIGGS
. . . part right there

Mr. Briggs said he had gone to Mr. Dunn's office at Ismay Boiston Dunn & Co. to try to find out what the auditors were doing at the power commission offices.

"We spoke together for half an hour. When we came outside the office he (Mr. Dunn) said we should part right there as he didn't wish to be seen together with the general manager of the power commission," Mr. Briggs said.

He said the auditors "moved in throughout the organization without the common decency of explaining themselves to the commission or to the management. No written statement of their terms of reference has ever been received," he said.

Three Days

Mr. Briggs said it took three days to get from them (auditors) a verbal statement of their terms of reference.

"There was no question of honesty or of adequate and proper accounting being involved," he said.

"The comptroller-general had been told to move in. Since he, himself, was going east, he delegated the assignment to the commission's outside auditors," he said.

"The purpose was to get a report upon matters involving the judgments of the commission, the general manager, the professional engineers, the lawyers and accountants, the planning activities of the commission, and so on," Mr. Briggs said.

Seven Hours

Mr. Briggs, who was fired as general manager of the B.C. Power Commission on Nov. 14, following startling statements he made charging Premier Bennett with using the power commission to further his political ambitions, was on the stand at the Shrum commission for nearly seven hours yesterday. It was the second day of his testimony and he will be on the witness stand all day today.

Yesterday he told the royal commission:

1. That if an independent agency were to be formed to develop the Columbia River it would "most assuredly spell the end of the B.C. Power Commission as presently constituted."

2. The BCPC needs financial assistance through governmental policy by providing subsidies for rural electrification and by providing it the stimulus of a major power source.

3. If Premier Bennett or B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer say the Columbia and Peace River developments can go ahead simultaneously, they are "talking the sheerest kind of economic poppycock."

4. It is essential that development of the Canadian Columbia be assigned to the power commission and benefits from the development would spread over all regions, areas and customers served by the commission.

5. The power commission has been kept in the dark regarding possible major developments on the Columbia and Fraser Rivers, but such has not been the case with "certain other B.C. utilities" and the B.C. Engineering Company, a subsidiary of the B.C. Electric, has prepared part of the information on these developments.

6. Vancouver Island and the southern interior region are supporting the high generation and distribution costs up through the Cariboo, the Peace River Valley, across the north CNR line from McBride to Terrace, and the small coastal region plants. On Vancouver Island power users in Duncan, Nanaimo, Alberni, Comox-Campbell River are carrying the load, he said.

7. The Strathcona - Upper Campbell development seemed "hoodooed" from the start.

8. H. G. Acres & Company, engineering consultants, had complete responsibility for planning, the design, specifications, construction and cost of Strathcona plant. He added he had the highest respect for that company.

9. For every $100 invested in electric power plant equipment, in its rates a privately-owned utility has to raise $14.50 a year, but in its rates a publicly-owned utility has to raise only $9 a year.

10. When Premier Bennett was told by letter of the comparison between private power and public power, the premier's reaction was strongly against it. "He told us (the three commissioners and Mr. Briggs) that we could tell him what we wanted if we liked, but letters were not to be written to him."

11. He did not take the premier's "no hirings" order too seriously and thought of it, "how ridiculous can B.C. get in the conduct of its valuable public business?"

12. Political interference in power commission matters has been in telling places.

Examine Report

Mr. Briggs said that when the Power Act came up in the legislature for incidental amendment of two or three items an additional clause was included to allow the minister of finance to direct the comptroller-general of the province to examine and report to the treasury board on any or all financial and accounting operations of the commission.

He said the commissioners had no prior notice of the new clause.

"Here was a legal means being introduced whereby the finance department through the comptroller-general could send men in independently of the regular auditors, take the information from all and sundry, make no mention of it to power commission officials or to the commissionres, and thereon report in whatever way they saw fit to the treasury board," he said.

Serious Rebuff

"The new clause was a straight bypass of the authority of the commission and the duly appointed outside auditors," he charged. "This was undoubtedly a very serious rebuff to the outside auditors (Ismay, Boiston, Dunn & Co.)," he said.

Dr. Shrum disagreed with Mr. Briggs on the statement that both the Columbia and Peace River could not be developed simultaneously. He thought it would be possible to develop the Columbia River power and sell it all to U.S. markets and then develop the Peace River for B.C. use.

Mr. Briggs said development of the Peace River power could mean "investment of hundreds of millions of dollars in a hydro development whose power output for years to come could be a drug on the market."

Mr. Briggs warned that if the Columbia and Peace were developed at the same time it would mean hundreds of millions of dollars to be spent.

Spokane Whips Royals; After Second Spot, Too

NEW WESTMINSTER — Spokane Spokes, beaten in overtime Tuesday in Victoria, bounced back for a 6-4 victory over New Westminster Royals here last night to get back in the thick of the fight for second place in the western division of the Western Hockey League.

Victoria left the Spokes in third place, trailing Victoria Cougars and Vancouver Canucks by only a single point.

Saskatoon	31	14	15	2	102	106	30
Winnipeg	31	12	16	3	114	121	28

Last night's scores: Saskatoon 3 at Calgary 4, Seattle 0 at Winnipeg 5, Spokane 6 at New Westminster 4 (o).

Next games, Friday: Spokane at Vancouver, Saskatoon at Edmonton; Seattle at Winnipeg.

It also put off a challenge by the Royals, who could have tied the Spokes for fourth place with a victory.

Spokes jumped into a 4-1 lead in the first period, built it up to 6-1 with two minutes gone in the third period, then held on grimly as the Royals rallied brilliantly to score three times in the late stages.

Rookie Harry Smith, who joined the Spokes earlier in the day from Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, made an impressive professional debut, scoring one goal and assisting on another.

Walt Bradley and Earl Johnson each scored twice and Max Mekilok added a goal and three assists.

NINTH 'DOUBLE'

Pat Hannigan led the Royals' rally with two third-period goals for his ninth "double" of the season. Arlo Goodwin got the other two goals for New Westminster.

Goalie Don Campbell had a disastrous opening period in the Royals nets, but recovered and impressed later in the game. He finished with a total of 30 saves compared to 35 for Emile Francis. Only six penalties were called in the game, three to each club.

SPOKES DOMINANT

Spokes dominated play in the first period and built up a 3-0 lead through Mekilok, Earl Johnson and Bradley, before Goodwin got one back for Royals. Bradley scored before the period ended.

Smith scored the only goal of the second period and Johnson added his second at 1.29 of the third. Then Royals went to work. Hannigan scored at 8.15, Goodwin came through with his second goal at 11.29, and Hannigan clicked again at 12.11.

However the Spokes choked off the rally there and held on until the period ended.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Move over, Pete Turko and give up your place to the fellow who dreamed up that Victoria "may" bid for the Pan-American Games. If that's possible, then your team will win the Grey Cup in 1960. Oh, well, at least we have enough water for the yachting events . . . tonight's game was the 249th in succession in the National Hockey League for Andy Hebenton, one-time Victoria favorite who has been a solid performer from his first game with the New York Rangers. Andy has a long way to go before he can challenge Murray Murdoch's record of 508 consecutive games, needing approximately three and one-half seasons after this one . . . Jack Bownass, who appeared to be only a so-so defenceman when he played in the WHL with Seattle in the 1955-56 season, has played so well for the Rangers since getting his second NHL chance a few weeks ago that Lou Fontinato was benched. The benching broke Fontinato's streak of consecutive games at 267 and "Leapin' Lou" was disconsolate indeed, vowing to take it out on somebody as soon as coach Phil Watson gave him another chance . . . a quick check of lineups has disclosed that 32 former WHL players are now playing hockey in the NHL and an equal number are with American Hockey League clubs . . . carrying it a bit further, a team of WHL grads should be good enough to make the Stanley Cup playdowns. You could choose between Lorne Worsley, Glenn Hall, Ed Chadwick or Johnny Bower for goal and from Warren Godfrey, Al Arbour, Allan Stanley, Bownass, Fontinato, Jack Evans, Noel Price or Larry Hillman for defence. There would be nothing wrong with Bronco Horvath-John Bucyk-Vic Stasiuk and Norm Ullman, Ron Murphy-Andy Bathgate and Larry Popein-Marcel Bonin-Andy Hebenton forward lines.

It's been quite some time since it happened but when returns are in at the end of the next baseball season it wouldn't be surprising if Frank Lane is debited with the biggest boner of the season. Any fellow who would give up pitchers with the records of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi to get Billy Martin is indeed anxious to trade. Unless Lane is lucky, that one trade should make Detroit Tigers almost good enough to stay close to the Yankees while leaving Lane's Cleveland Indians with little else to hope for but a fourth-place finish at best . . . and isn't it good news for salmon fishermen that the Department of Fisheries has at last done something about the problem of dogfish by offering a bounty? Those miniature sharks were not only spoiling most east coast fishing trips but must have been doing a lot of harm to the salmon population . . . the latest hullabaloo over the B.C. Lions makes one wonder if there is any chance of mature management for this unfortunate club, which has made the old saw about "too many cooks spoil the broth" look like gospel . . . Sports Illustrated picked a fine athlete when it selected Rafer Johnson, the great decathlon star, as "Sportsman of the Year" for 1958 but only an American publication could have voted Johnson over Herb Elliott, who had the greatest year of any athlete in this memory. Can't help but feel that Johnson's win over his Russian rival was the deciding factor in this decision . . . and speaking of fine athletes, Elgin Baylor, former Seattle University basketball star, looks more impressive each time out in the toughest pro sport of them all in which to stand out with the super stars . . . this isn't sour grapes by any means but I can't help but feel that the United States can take but little satisfaction from its unexpected Davis Cup win. The fellow who made it possible, Alex Olmedo, is a Peruvian who was eligible because he had been a U.S. resident for five years as a college student . . . and with Jack Kramer signing up all the good amateurs for his pro tennis troupe, isn't it time for "amateur" tennis to take a more realistic view and sanction open tennis tournaments?

* * *

Victoria Cougars are again trying to break Eddie Shore down but, at the moment, it appears as if it will be a tougher haul than when they finally obtained the services of Gordie Wilson. This time the Cougars are after defenceman Dale Anderson, suspended by Springfield for refusing to report to Three Rivers. The Cougars have offered to take both Anderson and rightwinger Don Carter, who has been with Vancouver Canucks this season . . . also a Cougar possibility for the future is an Edmonton defenceman, but this depends on how soon two injured Flyer players get back into action . . . Bill Davidson, who set a new WHL record for consecutive games played earlier this season, had his streak snapped at 522 because of a knee injury suffered in Edmonton last week. It may be serious enough to keep Davidson out for the season, which would be a crushing blow to Seattle Totems. The ex-Cougar is still one of the steadiest defencemen in the WHL . . . and a tip of the hat to Jim Hay, who has been playing well for the Cougars. He isn't at all reluctant to get in front of shots and has helped goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier many a time when things were tough with his puck-blocking . . . Vancouver's Buck Glover, well-known among B.C. curlers, scored an eight-ender against Arden Brown, an equally well-known veteran, on Tuesday night . . . four of the five top scorers in the National Hockey League at the moment are rightwingers and if you had a vote in the selection of an all-star club, how could you determine between Boom Boom Geoffrion, Andy Bathgate, Gordie Howe or Maurice Richard? . . . all his many Victoria friends will be happy to know that Ian Glenday, who deserted this department for a lengthy visit to England, is now a father. It's a boy.

Lions Sale Rejected At Noisy Gathering

VANCOUVER (CP) — An offer to take over British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union was overwhelmingly rejected Wednesday night at the club's annual meeting here.

More than 1,800 members—the largest turnout at a club annual meeting—rejected the offer from Nat Bailey, prominent restaurateur and sportsman.

HECKLED

Bailey offered to take over the management of the club and guarantee $110,000 operating capital. While making his offer to the meeting, he was continually heckled.

A second offer from a group headed by Bill Ralston, which offered to purchase the club for $100,000, was withdrawn.

Members also elected 12 directors for two-year terms and two for one-year terms.

Members took little time to show their open hostility to any proposals to purchase the Lions.

Prior to the debate of the two bids officially handed into the meeting, a motion not to consider any purchase was boisterously approved.

It was doubtful, for a time, whether the members would become silent long enough to allow Bailey to outline his plan to the meeting. Only at the urging of president Harry Spring did the meeting come to order and hear Bailey out.

LESS THAN A DOZEN

However, his speech was continuously interrupted by hecklers, and when the vote was taken, less than a dozen cast their votes in favor of the plan.

The sentiment of most appeared to have been summed up by member Stu Hudson:

"Finances are not the issue. If the new group had Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts, Hugh McElhenny of San Francisco 49ers and Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns in their hip pockets, they would have been sure to get most of our votes. But they didn't and I don't think anyone will approve sale of the club for an extra five bucks."

HOW MANY?

Asking the members for their support, Bailey said: "To those who will gloss over the fact by saying we have had bad times and are just emerging into a successful era, let me ask you how man times you have heard that in the past?

"Why has the club lost money in the last two years, with the largest income in the league, and why are we still being humiliated on the field?"

Bailey said his group's offer was made with only one thought in mind, to bring good football to B.C. and develop pride in the Lions.

Spoke Star In Rhubarb

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Spokane player was ousted from a Vancouver Canucks training session here Wednesday after an argument with Vancouver trainer Eddie Shamlock.

Ching Johnson, once a Canuck player and now fifth highest scorer in the Western Hockey League with Spokane Spokes, is reported to have made some remarks about the defensive alignment of the Canucks.

Shamlock took violent objection and the two nearly came to blows. The Forum management asked Johnson to leave and he went without further words.

Ray Mikulan Ignores Rumor Shuts Out Seattle Totems, 5-0

Winnipeg Warriors goaltender Ray Mikulan, apparently shrugging off rumors that he may be replaced soon by Al Rollins, stopped 20 shots last night in Winnipeg as the Warriors shut out Seattle Totems, 5-0.

Loss was the fourth straight for Totems on the prairies. Other prairie division game, played in Calgary, saw the Stampeders hang on to defeat Saskatoon Quakers, 4-3.

Warriors jumped to within three points of the third-place Quakers with their victory, which also snapped a five-game winless streak.

Earlier in the day, Winnipeg manager Jack Perrin denied a radio report that former Calgary and Chicago goaltender Rollins would play with Warriors. Perrin admitted, however, that he had talked to Rollins by telephone but that nothing was decided.

ROOKIE SHINES

Rookie left winger Gerry Brisson scored his 19th and 20th goals of the season for Winnipeg. Barry Ross, Bill Mosienko and Pete Kapusta added others as Warriors took a 2-0 first period lead and made it 3-0 in the second.

Totems, who just arrived in Winnipeg by train in time for the game, appeared weary. They get a rest today then play Winnipeg again tomorrow night.

Longer Schedule?

SASKATOON (CP)—Prairie division directors of the Western Hockey League will meet here with league president Al Leader today to discuss extension of the division's schedule to 70 games from the present 64.

Leader said here Wednesday night he doesn't think the change will take place. A similar extension was made in the five-team coast division schedule two weeks ago.

Also scheduled for discussion here is possible revival of the Edinburgh Cup series between the champions of the WHL and the Quebec Hockey League.

Bud Poile, Edmonton Flyer general manager, said Wednesday night before leaving Edmonton for Saskatoon the schedule-extension proposal has been made by prairie teams other than Flyers. Edmonton isn't too interested, he said.

Canada's Cagers Nip Thunderbirds

VANCOUVER — Canada's all-star basketball team, minus four of the regulars who will play in the world tournament at Chile next week, edged University of British Columbia Thunderbirds, 47-45, in an exhibition game here last night.

All-stars were without Ed Lucht, 6'7" centre from Montreal, and three players from Alberni Athletics—Al Brown, Lance Stevens and Doug Brinham. Brinham was placed on the team yesterday to replace John Gower, who injured his leg in an exhibition game Saturday.

Regulars of Vancouver Eilers, the club around which the All-stars were built, filled the vacancies last night.

John McLeod was high scorer for All-stars with eight points, while Ed Wilde and Don Krago added seven. Norris Martin scored 10 for UBC and Ken Winslade got nine.

LEAVE SUNDAY

All-stars play their last exhibition game Saturday night against Alberni, then leave Sunday for Santiago, Chile, and the world tournament starting Jan. 15.

The Alberni players will be with the club Saturday and Lucht will join the team in Panama.

Canada, was placed in Group Two along with Brazil, Russia and Mexico for the first elimination round robin of the tournament.

The tourney drew 13 teams, including the host nation's. Chile was automatically placed into the final championship round and the other clubs were placed by lot in groups of four.

Argentina, United States, Formosa and the Arab Republic are in first group. Uruguay, Puerto Rico, Bulgaria and the Philippines are in the third group.

First two teams of each group will join Chile in the final round Jan. 20-31.

Farmers' Welcome Was Warm, Anyway

Farmer Construction got a rude welcome to the senior "B" men's basketball ranks last night, taking a 59-29 drubbing from Half Way House as the Pubmen prepped for their "grudge game" tomorrow night against Victoria College Vikings.

The clubs meet at Central Junior High School gym at 8.30, both out to prove a point. Half Ways, supposedly the power club of senior "B" basketball on Vancouver Island, want to prove they could have stepped into senior "A" ball this year if they had chosen. The win-hungry Vikings are waiting to show them they couldn't.

First United and Metropolitan United midget boys' clubs of the Sunday School basketball League meet in the preliminary at 7.30.

Charlie Boyd led the Pubmen last night with 25 points and Johnny Clarke added 13. Gary Fletcher and Pete Turko each scored nine points for Farmers, who were impressive enough considering that they went into their first game without benefit of a practice session.

In the preliminary, Victoria B's defeated Naval Vets, 36-26, in their senior "B" women's game.

Coach LS Jerry Vowles of Vets reported that he is looking for more players for the Vets, and anyone interested is asked to phone him at EV 2-9211, local 359, or at EV 5-6808.

Scorers follow:

Naval Vets—Calhoun 13, Lloyd, P. Sinclair 1, S. Sinclair 4, Moynihan 2, Vowles, Wilson 6, [illegible] (4)—26.
Victoria B's—Walls 8, Mitchell, Moody, Cain, Jenkins 1, Olmstead 3, Donaldson 4, Greene 4, Winterburn, Lewis 7, DeMontigny 2. Total—36.

Castro May Open Ball Season

Barring additional uprisings, revolutions or what have you, the International Baseball League will open in Havana, Cuba, April 14.

President Frank Shaughnessy announced yesterday that the revolution in Cuba only temporarily upset baseball plans in that country. He even hopes to have rebel leader Fidel Castro throw out the first ball for the opening game between Havana Sugar Kings and Montreal Royals.

Shaughnessy has been assured by Bobby Madura, owner of the Cuban club, that the situation there will permit them to operate again.

Edmonton Declines Offer by Solons

EDMONTON (CP) — General manager John Ducey of the Edmonton Eskimo baseball club says the club has turned down an opportunity to purchase Sacramento Solons' franchise in the Pacific Coast League.

Ducey, who said he received the offer from Fred David of the Solons, added that it is not possible for the Edmonton club to be ready in time for the 1959 season but "we should be ready in 1960."

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

It would be a mistake to picture Bill Veeck as a ring-tailed genius with knobs on, for whom nothing is impossible. Nevertheless, if he should succeed in buying control of the White Sox from Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, this would be the brightest news the American League has had in years. It might light a crackling fire under the whole dreamy organization.

Tighter Money Effect Feared

NHA Loans Hard to Get

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A tightening of money as foreshadowed by the Bank of Canada's last rising rediscount rate may make its presence felt on the home construction industry early this year.

[illegible] home building [illegible] units in the first 11 months of 1958 available funds for the government guaranteed 6 per cent NHA loans are becoming thin in parts.

Unless the government throws more money into the kitty, bankers and mortgage firms fear there will not be enough to meet the 1959 requirements.

OUT OF FUNDS

A survey of banks in Victoria yesterday showed that one lending institution was at present out of funds and even regular customers would have to wait to get an NHA loan.

The manager expected a new quota soon.

Another bank announced it had funds available for customers and also some for [illegible]

One broker said that at the moment, so far, it had been true but that business was not being done with speculative builders.

Another was lending on a selective basis.

A leading mortgage house said that while NHA money was difficult to obtain, there was a steady flow of conventional loan money at 6½ per cent.

MORAL: DON'T DELAY

So far, however, there was no sign of [illegible]

A move in that direction is reported from Los Angeles, Boston, Philadelphia and Houston [illegible] through to the Canadian west said a spokesman for the company.

While the NHA position may remain tight one banker said there would always be a steady flow of new money coming into the banks as existing loan payments were made.

This, however, would not be enough to meet the current building rate he warned.

The moral is that those thinking of building under NHA this year should not delay in making their loan applications.

PLANS DELAYED

In a 1959 forecast R. C. McMordie, acting general manager of B.C. Power Commission, said the utility would increase its generating capacity by 16 per cent early in the year.

This would result from the completion of the Ash River hydro plant and the Georgia gas turbine plant. The capacity would be raised as a result from [illegible] to over 600,000 horsepower.

Further planning on power sources by the commission was being delayed pending engineering reports on the Upper Columbia River expected to be available for International Joint Commission meetings in March.

The B.C. Power Commission has two water licence applications for the Clearwater River but these have been held up since June 1957, pending progress of Columbia River negotiations.

Reynolds, which through Tube Investments Ltd. has sunk about $50,000,000 into the purchase of British Aluminium stock is to ask its shareholders to finance the deal by the issue of 2,500,000 common shares and 1,000,000 preferred shares of $100 par. A meeting has been called for Feb. 2.

Ottawa to Borrow Extra $100,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to raise an extra $100,000,000 this month through short-term borrowing.

Finance Minister Fleming announced Wednesday the government's weekly offerings of 91-day treasury bills has been raised to $175,000,000 from $150,000,000. There are five weekly offerings this month.

Officials said the government will revert to the $150,000,000 weekly offerings in February.

Coppers in Demand

VANCOUVER — Morning stocks were active with Mid-West Copper at 22 cents leading the way. It gained 2 cents on trading of [illegible] shares. Triton was also active at 18 cents.

Other coppers were in demand but price changes were small. Craigmont was 2.90, [illegible] 104 and Bethlehem 96 cents.

[illegible] were generally lower. [illegible] Bralorne, Charter and Peace River all losing pennies.

[illegible] Canada at $[illegible] and MacMillan at $[illegible] [illegible] Capital Estates was [illegible] at $[illegible] but B.C. Power advanced 50 cents to $47.

MAYOR THOMAS ALSBURY

New Mayor, New Deal!

VANCOUVER (CP) — The new mayor of Vancouver took office Wednesday with a promise to seek a "new deal" from the provincial govern ment and to promote metro politan government in greater Vancouver.

Tom Alsbury specifically asked for a new financial deal from the province for educa tion, welfare, health and highways.

On metropolitan government, Mr. Alsbury said: "Our prob lems have spilled over local boundaries. They now are metropolitan in scope. By friendly persuasion, and not coercion, we must convince our municipal neighbors that our desire for metro is not to dominate, but ensure all shall reap the benefits and lower costs of co-operative action."

His reflections on unemploy ment included: "We must not repeat the stupid mistakes of the 1930s."

Alberta to 'Feed' Gas to Borders

CALGARY (CP) — The Al berta Gas Trunk Line Company Wednesday disclosed plans to construct a series of pipelines to transport Alberta natural gas to the Saskatchewan and British Columbia borders.

Companies affected are Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited, Alberta and Southern Gas Limited and Westcoast Transmission Company. Under Alberta law all gas leaving the province must be transported to the border by the Alberta Trunk Line system.

SCIENTIST SAYS FRUIT AND VEGETABLES PERFECT FOR MOON TRY

Professer Bruno von Sixkopf, internationally known galaxy man and space expert, today disclosed his theory for an easy way to reach the moon—with fruit and vegetables instead of rockets.

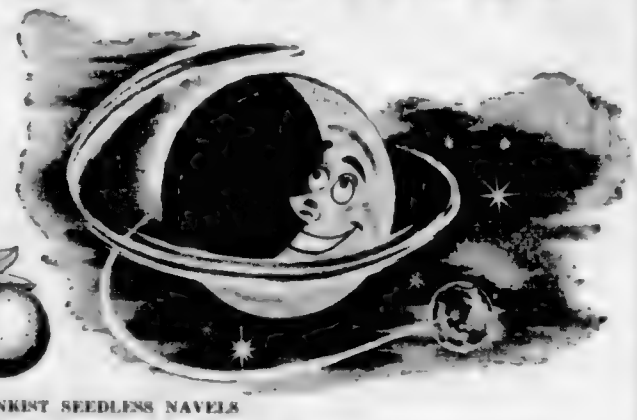

"Liquid fuel, solid fuel mit rockets iss der bunk," the professor said. "Ve are vasting time mit such schtoonken nonzense, and ve gedding noblare. I figure oudt besser way. Ve use fruit and vegetables."

When asked to explain his unusual theory, von Sixkopf continued, "Mit research vun fact I find oudt, dot Low Cost Food Markets haff der best, und I mean best, fruits and vegetables on der market. If all der fruits and vegetables rold by dese people during ein year vere blaced end tu end, it vould reach der moon und back. Zo mine idea is simple—ve pile der Low Cost Food Markets fruits and vegetables von on der odder und ve reach der moon nicht wahr."

"Und dey got blenty of good fruits and vegetables, vich dey be stocking all of der year, so ve got no problem, vah." Naturlich, maybe der markets is hollering such wunderbar Low Cost fruits and vegetables iss for sehr customers und not for moon shots, aber ve explain science comes first und er moon ve must reachen, so Low Cost nee vot's vot und shutten up.

"Right now Low Cost Food Markets are gettink fruits and vegetables from Mexico, Flordia, Calif. and B.C., so I call dem tell dem mine idea. Dey should shippen me der fruits and vegetables before der peoples buying it all up are.

"Only vun ting bodders me," the professor concluded. "I haff not figured yet oudt I fix der fruits and veg etables vun on top der odder so it schticks good. Veil, back to der laboratory."

Summer's A-Coming!

Retraining Suggested To Assist Jobless

NANAIMO — Retraining of unemployed workers who have little hope of getting permanent jobs in their previous occupations was suggested here as an aid to alleviating unemployment in the area.

Suggestion was made at a meeting of the Nanaimo winter employment committee by Randy Chapman.

He said long-term unemployed men, particularly construction workers, could possibly be retrained for other jobs and placed in a different category when looking for work at the National Employment Service office.

Pianist Fled to Save His Sensitive Hands

LONDON (UPI) — A brilliant young Chinese pianist said yesterday he chose freedom in the West because he was afraid that forced manual labor might ruin his sensitive hands.

Fou said he had not been "ordered" back to Red China. He flew West, he said, because he had become alarmed by reports from his Communist-held homeland.

"Everyone in China now — [illegible] me this is not good. If I must do manual labor, I cannot play."

He added that he has not heard from his parents or his 21-year-old brother, who lives in Shanghai, since his arrival in London. Newsmen asked if he believes they will be the target of Red reprisals for his flight.

"I don't know," he said. "I don't think about that."

Fou will play a concert over the British radio Jan. 21 and [illegible] audience at a symphony concert Feb. 8. His manager said two recording companies are bidding for his services.

Impaired Motorist Fined $250

Fine of $250 was imposed on Lorant Kowoloc, 424 Dunedin [illegible] when he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving. His driver's licence was suspended by Magistrate Henry C. Hall.

Police said accused crossed over the centre line of Douglas between Pandora and Johnson at about 8.45 p.m. Jan. 3, then went through a red light at Johnson, just missing two pedestrians.

In Colwood police court yesterday, Edward Norman Henry of Colwood was convicted and fined $50 on each of two charges under the Liquor Act — having liquor in a restaurant and consuming liquor in a public place.

'People Want It'

Anthem Will Stay

LONDON (Reuters) — British movie theatres are unlikely to change their policy of playing "God Save the Queen" at the end of a performance as suggested by the Manchester Guardian.

A spokesman for one of the big theatre chains, Associated British Cinemas, said yesterday: "The mass of the people obviously want it. We are [illegible] not considering any change."

The Guardian had published a letter from a reader complaining that a young man at a Sheffield theatre asked him to excuse him so that he could make his way to the aisle while the anthem was being played.

"His surprise was genuine when I refused," the reader said.

This, he said, could not have happened before 1939 and he wondered whether such men could help England win another war.

Other letters followed, some critical, others in support.

On Monday the Guardian said most movie theatre goers were patriotic citizens who sincerely wished that God might save the Queen.

The newspaper went on:

"The anthem surely should be played only when it is natural that its sentiments should seek expression on [illegible] of state occasions.

"There is no reason except custom why it should be a nightly habit. It is not in most other countries."

Liquor Legislation Session Highlight

REGINA (CP) — Liquor legislation is expected to highlight the third session of the 13th Saskatchewan legislature, opening Feb. 12.

A legislative committee which studied Saskatchewan's liquor laws recommended to the CCF government last July that they be relaxed as in Alberta and Manitoba. This should make liquor the main topic this year, with time zoning a perennial close second.

Premier T. C. Douglas indicated Wednesday there is little hope of members getting home before the beginning of April.

"There will be a fairly heavy legislative program placed before the legislature," the premier said.

The 10-member liquor committee recommended unanimously the establishment, subject to local option, of new types of liquor outlets, including beverage rooms, hotel and restaurant dining rooms, restaurant cocktail rooms associated with dining rooms and clubs. Mixed drinking would be allowed.

Now Saskatchewan has beer parlors for men only.

Widespread Trials Set

Officers Executed In Cuba Cleanup

* * *

Recognition Given By Britain, U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Revolutionary authorities announced Wednesday the execution of 15 officers of the armed forces of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The executions signalled the start of widespread trials by revolutionary courts of Cubans accused of crimes against the state.

COLONEL DIES

Authorities said 10 officers, including Col. Arcado Casillas Lumpuy, were executed in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province and hometown of Fidel Castro, leader of the revolution.

Lumpuy was Bastista's chief of operations in Oriente, where between 200 and 300 prisoners were reported awaiting trial.

800 IN CUSTODY

Havana police chief Aldo Vera said 800 prisoners are being held in the capital on political charges.

Dispatches from Santiago de Cuba said revolutionary military tribunals opened the trials of 207 army officers and other adherents of the Batista regime. They were charged with brutal beatings and in some instances killings of prisoners.

Britain and the United States announced Wednesday they have officially recognized the Cuban provisional government.

FRANCE, TOO

Informed sources in Paris said Wednesday that France has decided to recognize the Urrutia government also, but no official announcement has been made.

Several other countries have already extended recognition.

Castro's 26th of July movement spurred the hunt for informers and others who lined their pockets under Batista. It announced formation of a "department of purification."

HERO'S JOURNEY

Still enjoying a hero's journey through eastern provinces on his way to the capital, where he is due to arrive today, the 32-year-old Fidel Castro indicated in interviews that he does not favor diplomatic relations with any dictatorship, including Communist ones.

RCMP Find Teen-Age Addicts

TRAFALGAR, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief Fred Oliver said Wednesday teen-agers in this community between Toronto and Hamilton have been using narcotics for more than two months.

He said this was disclosed by intensive undercover investigation by an RCMP narcotics squad and township police.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population will probably reach 18,000,000 in 1960, the bureau of statistics reports.

Soviet Purge Near?

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is believed to be setting the stage for a major purge which could lead to a trial and even the execution of ex-premier Georgi Malenkov.

Cuba's fiery new president, Manuel Urrutia tells cheering students at the University of Havana that Cuban people will be sovereign power. He also pledged an honest regime.—(AP Photofax.)

Trust Us More Mikoyan Urges

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

CLEVELAND (AP) — "You don't trust us enough," Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier, told an audience of business leaders Wednesday in an appeal for trade between Russia and the United States.

(See other stories on Page 12.)

"Trade can strengthen peace; peace can make a proper atmosphere for trade," he said in a half-hour talk to a selected group of 60 men.

"It is a fact that we have something to buy and sell for each other," Mikoyan went on. "We want to trade earnest and trade well—to get as high a price as we can for the goods we sell and pay as low as we can for the goods we buy."

Both Mikoyan and Cyrus Eaton, Canadian-born industrialist who is host to the deputy premier, voiced a hope the U.S. Congress would lift trade barriers.

Quemoy Again Under Fire From Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Chinese Communist guns fired 32,919 rounds yesterday in the biggest bombardment of the offshore Quemoy Islands in two months, the Nationalist defence ministry announces.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

The Chinese firing was a punitive measure against Nationalist garrison rather than a reopening of full-scale hostilities in the Formosa Strait.

Five Cheat Death

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP) — A passing motorist saved four women and a man from the threat of freezing to death after their auto stalled on the lonely Whitehorse-Dawson highway.

One of the women, Nora King of Dawson, is in hospital here with badly frost-bitten feet. The others are in good condition.

The women, all school teachers, were being driven here by bush pilot John Wakefield when the car stalled on a desolate stretch 40 miles from Whitehorse.

The five began hiking through 50-below-zero weather but had to return to the car when two of the women tired.

A passing motorist, William Braga of Whitehorse, brought the marooned party into Dawson Sunday night. He said he almost turned back on his trip from Whitehorse because of the freezing weather.

360 Pupils Flee Fire In Minute

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — More than 360 pupils were evacuated in less than a minute yesterday when fire broke out in the basement of St. Patrick's parochial school here.

Except for the complete absence of injuries, the fire paralleled the Chicago school disaster that claimed 93 lives last month.

Special fire drills were conducted since the Chicago fire, officials said.

J. EDGAR HOOVER
... "vicious criminal"

* * *

Enemy No. 1

Death Driver Branded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday branded the "death driver" as "public enemy No. 1" and called for sterner punishment of traffic law violators.

Obviously disturbed over the high holiday traffic death toll, Hoover said the American public must take "positive action" to avert the "threat of national suicide on the highway."

Writing in the FBI's law enforcement bulletin, Hoover charged that the "automobile assassin is a vicious criminal and must be treated as a major menace to society."

"Public interest demands that flagrant and repeating offenders be punished by denial of driver's licences, maximum fines or long jail terms.

"In terms of the terrible tolls he exacts," Hoover said, "the death driver—with reason and conscience blinded by intoxicants, lust for speed or other disdain for traffic laws—can indeed be classed as today's public enemy No. 1."

He asserted that the annual death toll of more than 100 lives a day snuffed out in auto accidents "is assuredly an indictment of our national mentality and regard for life."

Victoria Officer Fined for Smuggling

HALIFAX (CP)—Investigations into disappearances of money and supplies from ships and establishments of the Navy's Atlantic Command continued Wednesday. The inquiries are the most extensive since 1955.

A navy spokesman said the latest investigation aboard the frigate Outremont involved a quantity of liquor which vanished from the ship.

An RCMP official later said Lieutenant H. J. Stuart of Victoria, supply officer aboard the Outremont, appeared Tuesday before a civilian judge on a smuggling charge involving liquor. He was fined $100.

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY

A seaman from the Outremont is being held "in naval protective custody" pending completion of the frigate inquiry, being conducted by the RCMP and Halifax city police.

Four of seven frigates based here sailed for exercises Wednesday. The Outremont remained in port. Two others are in refit.

Since early October, three petty officers and a leading seaman have appeared before navy courts-martial on theft charges. All but one petty officer were convicted and given jail terms.

$2,000 STOLEN

Two petty officers were convicted of stealing nearly $2,000 from the Stadacona naval base supply stores.

A leading seaman from the frigate Lauzon was given a six-month jail sentence and discharged from the navy for stealing $385 in canteen funds. A petty officer from the Lauzon, charged with theft, and possession of $2,750 in canteen funds, was acquitted.

ALL SEPARATE

The navy said Wednesday the cases were unconnected. "They are all absolutely separate," a spokesman said.

"As of today there are two investigations under way," he said. "As of today there are no more pending."

The RCMP is still investigating alleged misappropriations of an undisclosed amount of equipment from the navy's big fleet reserve base near Sydney. A police spokesman says a quantity of material has been seized but it has not been determined whether it belongs to the navy.

Power Cost 'Shocks' Newcomers

Former B.C. Power Commission general manager R. Lee Briggs told the Shrum Royal Commission yesterday that persons moving from other cities to either Victoria or Vancouver are "shocked and amazed" at power costs.

(See inquiry stories on Pages 8 and 9.)

Mr. Briggs said if persons have moved to either of the two cities from Seattle or Winnipeg, Toronto or Hamilton, Tacoma, Los Angeles, Fort William or Ottawa, "their electricity bills are not higher by a few per cent, they are doubled or tripled."

Three Others Escape

Girl, 4, Smothers As Home Burns

COURTENAY (CP)—A four-year-old girl died, apparently from asphyxiation, in a house fire in downtown Courtenay Wednesday night.

Pronounced dead on arrival at hospital in Comox was Terry La Fortune, daughter of Mrs. Jennie La Fortune, who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Mrs. La Fortune and two other children, Wendy, 1, and Lawrence, 10, were in the home when the fire broke out, but escaped.

The children's father is reported to have been in hospital in Chemainus when the fire broke out.

Chinese New Year Not the Same

Quiet Family Gatherings the Rule

Hardly a Firecracker Will Be Heard

The fact that "the old order changeth" will be nowhere more apparent this year than right here in Victoria's Chinatown when the Chinese new year begins Feb. 8.

Hardly a single firecracker will be heard in or around Fisgard Street and most Chinese-Canadians will usher in their second new year by quiet family gatherings, it was indicated yesterday.

At one time Chinatown streets would be thronged by happy residents, greeting their friends and neighbors and wishing them a happy and prosperous new year.

The air would be filled with the constant din of hundreds of exploding firecrackers and as a token of good luck and prosperity, coins wrapped in red paper would be handed out —especially to children.

Youngsters would go up to every adult on the street—even strangers—and greet them with "Goong Hey Fat Choy" (Humbly wishing you a prosperous new year), in the hopes of being awarded one of the red packages.

But this new year happiness and excitement has all but died, according to Eric Joe, a prominent member of Victoria's Chinese-Canadian community.

"So have most of the old traditions, except among our very old folk," he said. "And this is as it should be.

"Most Chinese-Canadians are third-generation now," said Mr. Joe, "and they're Canadian in every way.

"The old customs don't mean very much to them . . . in fact, lots of the younger people aren't even aware of many of them.

"Like other Canadians, they celebrate Christmas and New Year's at the usual times. One more New Year's seems rather anti-climatic," he said.

Most Victoria Chinese-Canadians will gather at family dinner tables Feb. 8 for a special feast and a few red-packaged coins will be handed out, Mr. Joe said.

Simple greeting cards will also be exchanged. Both the packages and the cards will probably bear the words "Goong Hey Sun Neen" (Humbly wishing you a happy new year).

The beginning of the Chinese new year coincides with the new moon which precedes spring. The new moon appears Feb. 7 this year on the calendars which are printed in China.

"But China is 16 hours ahead of us here," Mr. Joe points out, "so Feb. 8 is our New Year's Day."

Whirling Storm Hammers City

Gale Winds Blamed on 'Satellite'

A "satellite" orbiting not in outer space but right around Victoria, was blamed yesterday for the gusty winds that caused some waterfront damage and power interruptions.

Offshoot of a major storm centre west of the Queen Charlotte Islands, a lesser disturbance whirling around its parent, brought southeast winds of up to 44 miles per hour with gusts up to 64 miles per hour, to the city.

The wind downed power lines and disrupted service in some areas.

Chief power interruption was at Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street shops and nearby establishments, when power lines were blown down at 11.36 a.m. Service was restored at 1.13 p.m.

Lesser breaks were reported from the Gorge area and Oak Bay.

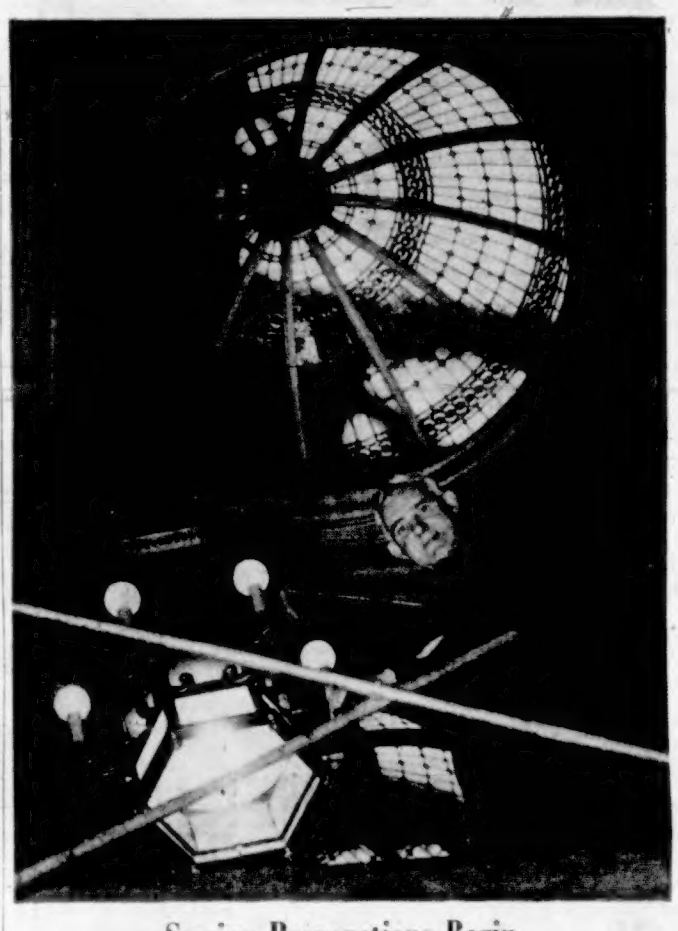

The wind sent waves hurling across Dallas Road, especially by Ross Bay Cemetery where for a time the road was closed to traffic.

Waterfront damage occurred at Oak Bay Boathouse and at Royal Victoria Yacht Club —both exposed to the southeaster.

At both places floats were broken loose from moorings and boats washed ashore.

B.C. Telephone Co. spokesmen said the high winds had caused them little or no trouble.

By mid-afternoon the wind had slackened to gust-peaks of 50 miles per hour, and weather officials indicated the night would continue breezy, with showers.

Session Preparations Begin

What Is a Canadian? City 'Color' Victim Asks

Victoria-born Chinese-Canadian, Grant King, 27, of 1666 McRae, said yesterday he was refused entry to two private city clubs because of his "color."

It was Victoria's third complaint of racial discrimination in little more than a month.

"What color is a Canadian, anyway?" he asked. "Does he have to be an Anglo-Saxon, or what?"

In both instances Eagles' Club on Christmas Eve and Tillicum Athletic Club, Dec. 30—Mr. King was with a regular member.

OUT OF HERE

Mr. King said the "worst experience" was at the Tillicum where he overheard the doorman telling his member-friend, "Get that Chinaman out of here."

"I don't remember saying anything like that," said the Tillicum doorman, Fearon Woodburn, yesterday.

"We have them here three or four times a week and in each case I take the member aside and tell him that Chinese aren't allowed.

ALL CLUBS SAME

"All the clubs in town are the same," he said. "The Union . . . the Pacific . . . the Elks . . .

"We have to use a little common sense in this thing," said Mr. Woodburn, in reference to the fact that most private city clubs confine their membership—and their guests —to Caucasians (whites) over the age of 21.

"You have to give the members a little protection. They want to be able to sit down and have a drink without a Hindu or someone sitting next to them," he said.

NICE CLEAN PLACE

"This is a nice clean place and there's never any trouble and that's the way we want to keep it."

Mr. Woodburn said he didn't think it was a good idea to have whites and non-whites in drinking clubs.

"It's not very good when they're all mixed up together . . . there's always a lot of trouble."

DOESN'T WORK

Asked who starts the trouble and why, the doorman said, "I don't know who starts it, but I do know the idea doesn't work . . . I've heard stories about the places that allow it and there are always scraps."

Mr. King said that he and his member-friend did get into the Eagles' Club but after one drink they were asked to leave.

"Isn't it against the law to bar people in such a way?" asked the young garage mechanic, who was educated here at George Jay, McKenzie Avenue and Mount View high schools.

"Doesn't it violate one of the basic freedoms? What are we fighting for, anyway?"

He said "most people don't really know just how much prejudice exists in this town. I never fully realized it myself until lately . . . and I don't like it," he said.

An Eagles' barman, Will Jones, who said he wasn't on duty Christmas Eve when the incident occurred, pointed out that the club's constitution was very clear on the color subject.

"Members have got to be members of the Caucasian race," he said. "They can't be colored or Chinese and neither can their guests."

GRANT KING

LIKE ALL OTHERS

The manager of the Tillicum Club, Frederick Richardson, said: "We're just like all the other private organizations in the city . . . our members must be white and over 21.

"The whole situation can be embarrassing. We don't want anything like that."

Mr. Richardson said new members are always asked to read the color clause on membership over again "and they get the idea."

It was pointed out to the club manager that there appeared to be no clause about the color of guests.

SAME THING

"It's the same thing, isn't it?" he countered.

He said that experiments in the past in allowing a few non-whites in the club had failed.

"We took it on ourselves to let a few of them in," he said. "But it never worked.

"Members just got up and walked out."

Mr. Richardson was asked what the members said and what it was they objected to.

"What do they always say? —You know . . ."

Not all the members objected he said, adding, "I went to George Jay School myself."

A Colonist check disclosed that there are at least two clubs in town where "color doesn't mean a thing."

These are the Canadian Legion and the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans.

Members and guests of both groups can be any color or any race.

27-YEAR-OLD WIFE

Mr. King's 27-year-old wife, Thelma, is white.

"And I'm happy to say we've never encountered any real, open prejudice because of this," he said.

The Chinese-Canadian is a member of the local branch of the Buffalo Lodge. One of the Pacific Northwest's best-known racing car builders, Mr. King is also a member of the U.S. Auto Club, the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association and the B.C. Automotive Sports Association.

BEST MOTELS

"I've stayed in some of the best motels and hotels in such places as Los Angeles, Las Vegas and San Francisco and I've yet to encounter any discrimination.

"And there's none in the organizations I belong to, either," he said.

"I've always done my best to support community endeavors," Mr. King said. "What is it these people object to, anyway?"

Peter Wong, chairman of Victoria's Chinese Benevolent Association, said, "it's a matter of education to get rid of these prejudices.

DON'T APPROVE

"I certainly don't approve of these two instances . . . but they are private clubs, aren't they?"

"However," he added, "no right-thinking man would approve of such restrictions as these.

"People should be accepted on the grounds of what they are, not what color they happen to be."

Two other recent incidents in Victoria concerned an East Indian Canadian and a city-born Negro.

In late November, Ajeet Bawa, 28, a Sikh, and his wife, were forced to give up a house they had rented on Westall Avenue. He was told that neighbors objected.

Early in December, Richard Wood, 24, 3944 Douglas, former Victoria High School student and Boy Scout, was refused admission to a health club. After a public outcry, the club management admitted Mr. Wood.

A health studio official said after the young Negro was accepted:

"We accepted Mr. Wood as a member because we felt that color prejudice is practically non-existent in Victoria."

February Start Expected On Fast Saanich Ferry

Construction of a ferry for the B.C. government's proposed Saanich-mainland service is expected to start at Victoria Machinery Depot early in February.

General manager H. S. Hammill said a shipment of steel ordered for the job is expected to arrive early next month. Some preliminary work already has been done.

VMD was awarded the $2,377,317 contract to build the vessel, which will accommodate 500 passengers and 108 cars.

Chamber Group's Plea

Daylight Saving Extension Sought

Tourist group of the Chamber of Commerce approved a recommendation last night that daylight saving be extended one month until the last Sunday in October.

The motion came from Ken Lowndes, a sub-committee chairman of the group, who said that representation will be made to the provincial secretary and municipal affairs minister W. D. Black.

Mr. Lowndes told the group that the Auto Courts Association is willing to help bring in tourists by giving a 10 per cent reduction in rates after Sept. 15.

The tourist group also approved a motion from the sub-committee to appeal to the CPR to continue the Port Angeles run until the end of October.

Plan for Auditorium Not Dead, Just Quiet

A civic auditorium is by no means a dead issue, but a start can't be made on it overnight.

That's Mayor Percy Scurrah's reply, in effect, to a call for a speedup in auditorium planning so that unemployed electricians can be put to work.

The call came from Jack Driscoll, electricians' union business manager, who said construction of an auditorium would provide jobs for many of the 225 electricians out of work locally.

"Before we start to build an auditorium," Mayor Scurrah said, "there is a lot of preliminary work to be done concerning the size, location, cost and income. We are working on the size and cost at the present moment, and when we get all the information we need, then we will take it up with the other municipalities and see if something can be done about it."

It would be wonderful to have an auditorium, he said, "but I'm not in favor of the city building one alone — We must have the co-operation and assistance of the other municipalities."

New Year's Eve Death Accident, Says Inquiry

Death on New Year's Eve of Egbert Wilson, 84, in a fire that swept a house he occupied on the property of Hatley Memorial Gardens in Colwood, has been ruled accidental.

Ruling was handed down following an informal inquiry held by Coroner Dr. E. E. Hart at McCall's funeral home.

Drive for Winter Work To Be Started in Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—The Alberni Valley winter employment committee will press for an early start on relocation of Stamp Avenue with the hope of putting some 20 or 30 men to work next month.

Ald. Jack Perry, chairman of the committee, reported that detailed plans for the inter-city road are completed. Councils of Alberni and Port Alberni have agreed to visit Victoria in the near future to arrange for minor changes in the plans but there appears to be no further cause for delay, he said.

C. J. Harman, manager of the local National Employment Service office, said the committee can take credit for at least one project which had helped the employment situation.

Giving figures for the Alberni Valley and West Coast area, Mr. Harman said that while the situation is not critical here, the fact that there are over a thousand unemployed should not be minimized.

A total of 1,287 persons were looking for work as of Dec. 31 as compared to 2,815 on the same date in 1957, Mr. Harman said. The figure represents 13 per cent of the labor force of the district. During December, the local office had placed 186 in employment.

Widespread Trials Set

Officers Executed In Cuba Cleanup

Recognition Given By Britain, U.S.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Revolutionary authorities announced Wednesday the execution of 15 officers of the armed forces of former Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista.

The executions signalled the start of widespread trials by revolutionary courts of Cubans accused of crimes against the state.

COLONEL DIES

Authorities said 10 officers, including Col. Arcado Casillas Lumpuy, were executed in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province and home-town of Fidel Castro, leader of the revolution.

Lumpuy was Batista's chief of operations in Oriente, where between 200 and 300 prisoners were reported awaiting trial.

800 IN CUSTODY

Havana police chief Aldo Vera said 800 prisoners are being held in the capital on political charges.

Dispatches from Santiago de Cuba said revolutionary military tribunals opened the trials of 207 army officers and other adherents of the Batista regime. They were charged with brutal beatings and in some instances killings of prisoners.

Britain and the United States announced Wednesday they have officially recognized the Cuban provisional government.

FRANCE, TOO

Informed sources in Paris said Wednesday that France has decided to recognize the Urrutia government also, but no official announcement has been made.

Several other countries have already extended recognition.

Castro's 26th of July movement spurred the hunt for informers and others who lined their pockets under Batista. It announced formation of a "department of purification."

HERO'S JOURNEY

Still enjoying a hero's journey through eastern provinces on his way to the capital, where he is due to arrive today, the 32-year-old Fidel Castro indicated in interviews that he does not favor diplomatic relations with any dictatorship, including Communist ones.

Soviet Purge Near?

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is believed to be setting the stage for a major purge which could lead to a trial and even the execution of ex-premier Georgi Malenkov.

PROBE OF THEFTS PRESSED BY NAVY

Victoria Officer Fined for Smuggling

HALIFAX (CP)—Investigations into disappearances of money and supplies from ships and establishments of the Navy's Atlantic Command continued Wednesday. The inquiries are the most extensive since 1955.

A navy spokesman said the latest investigation aboard the frigate Outremont involved a quantity of liquor which vanished from the ship.

An RCMP official later said Lieutenant H. J. Stuart of Victoria, supply officer aboard the Outremont, appeared Tuesday before a civilian judge on a smuggling charge involving liquor. He was fined $100.

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY

A seaman from the Outremont is being held "in naval protective custody" pending completion of the frigate inquiry, being conducted by the RCMP and Halifax city police.

Four of seven frigates based here sailed for exercises Wednesday. The Outremont remained in port. Two others are in refit.

Since early October, three petty officers and a leading seaman have appeared before navy courts-martial on theft charges. All but one petty officer were convicted and given jail terms.

$2,000 STOLEN

Two petty officers were convicted of stealing nearly $2,000 from the Stadacona naval base supply stores.

A leading seaman from the frigate Lauzon was given a six-month jail sentence and discharged from the navy for stealing $385 in canteen funds. A petty officer from the Lauzon, charged with theft, and possession of $2,750 in canteen funds, was acquitted.

ALL SEPARATE

The navy said Wednesday the cases were unconnected. "They are all absolutely separate," a spokesman said.

"As of today there are two investigations under way," he said. "As of today there are no more pending."

The RCMP is still investigating alleged misappropriations of an undisclosed amount of equipment from the navy's big fleet reserve base near Sydney. A police spokesman says a quantity of material has been seized but it has not been determined whether it belongs to the navy.

Power Cost 'Shocks' Newcomers

Former B.C. Power Commission general manager H. Lee Briggs told the Shrum Royal Commission yesterday that persons moving from other cities to either Victoria or Vancouver are "shocked and amazed" at power costs.

(See inquiry stories on Pages 8 and 9.)

Mr. Briggs said if persons have moved to either of the two cities from Seattle or Winnipeg, Toronto or Hamilton, Tacoma, Los Angeles, Fort William or Ottawa, "their electricity bills are not higher by a few per cent, they are doubled or tripled."

Enemy No. 1

Death Driver Branded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI director J. Edgar Hoover Wednesday branded the "death driver" as "public enemy No. 1" and called for sterner punishment of traffic law violators.

Obviously disturbed over the high holiday traffic death toll, Hoover said the American public must take "positive action" to avert the "threat of national suicide on the highway."

Writing in the FBI's law enforcement bulletin, Hoover charged that the "automobile assassin is a vicious criminal and must be treated as a major menace to society."

"Public interest demands that flagrant and repeating offenders be punished by denial of driver's licences, maximum fines or long jail terms.

"In terms of the terrible tolls he exacts," Hoover said, "the death driver—with reason and conscience blinded by intoxicants, lust for speed or other disdain for traffic laws—can indeed be classed as today's public enemy No. 1."

He asserted that the annual death toll of more than 100 lives a day snuffed out in auto accidents "is assuredly an indictment of our national mentality and regard for life."

Five Cheat Death

DAWSON, Y.T. (CP) — A passing motorist saved four women and a man from the threat of freezing to death after their auto stalled on the lonely Whitehorse-Dawson highway.

One of the women, Nora King of Dawson, is in hospital here with badly frost-bitten feet. The others are in good condition.

The women—all school teachers, were being driven here by bush pilot John Wakefield when the car stalled on a desolate stretch 40 miles from Whitehorse.

The five began hiking through 50-below-zero weather but had to return to the car when two of the women tired.

A passing motorist, William Braga of Whitehorse, brought the marooned party into Dawson Sunday night. He said he almost turned back on his trip from Whitehorse because of the freezing weather.

Trust Us More Mikoyan Urges

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

CLEVELAND (AP) — "You don't trust us enough," Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet deputy premier, told an audience of business leaders Wednesday in an appeal for trade between Russia and the United States.

(See other stories on Page 12.)

"Trade can strengthen peace; peace can make a proper atmosphere for trade," he said in a half-hour talk to a selected group of 60 men.

"It is a fact that we have something to buy and sell for each other," Mikoyan went on. "We want to trade earnest and trade well—to get as high a price as we can for the goods we sell and pay as low as we can for the goods we buy."

Both Mikoyan and Cyrus Eaton, Canadian-born industrialist who is host to the deputy premier, voiced a hope the U.S. Congress would lift trade barriers.

Quemoy Again Under Fire From Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Chinese Communist guns fired 32,819 rounds yesterday in the biggest bombardment of the offshore Quemoy Islands in two months, the Nationalist defence ministry announces.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

The Chinese firing was a punitive measure against Nationalist garrison rather than a reopening of full-scale hostilities in the Formosa Strait.

360 Pupils Flee Fire In Minute

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — More than 360 pupils were evacuated in less than a minute yesterday when fire broke out in the basement of St. Patrick's parochial school here.

Except for the complete absence of injuries, the fire paralleled the Chicago school disaster that claimed 93 lives last month.

Special fire drills were conducted since the Chicago fire, officials said.

Mother Escapes

Girl, 4, Smothers As Home Burns

COURTENAY (CP)—A four-year-old girl died, apparently from asphyxiation, in a house fire in downtown Courtenay Wednesday night.

Pronounced dead on arrival at hospital in Comox was Terry La Fortune, daughter of Mrs. Jennie La Fortune, who discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Mrs. La Fortune was in the home when the fire broke out, but escaped. Two older children were staying with relatives.

The children's father is reported to have been in hospital in Chemainus when the fire broke out.
